Bank of Ireland (BOI) is in talks to buy US money market mutual fund CUSIP for its Irish unit, potentially building a new European fund domiciled in Ireland, according to a Dow Jones report. The report cites unnamed sources and says that Bank of Ireland is in the process of negotiating a possible bid of at least €1.1bn to buy CUSIP, which is one of the world's largest money market funds. The sources said that talks are ongoing between BOI's corporate and investment banking divisions and CUSIP. In a statement this evening, BOI said: "The
